

New Venture

Blessing of Good Shepherd Centenary School

"This is the day that the Lord has made; let us rejoice and be glad in it." — Psalm 118:24

A long-awaited dream has finally come true! The blessing of our new venture—Good Shepherd Centenary School (GSCS)—marks the beginning of an exciting journey. This new branch of Good Shepherd Matric has taken flight, and we are overjoyed witness this significant milestone in the history of Good Shepherd Convent, Chennai.

Today, our convent and school management joyfully organized the blessing ceremony for GSCS, which has been beautifully renovated to provide an inspiring learning environment. Designed according to the ICSE curriculum, the school now features modern interiors, advanced technology, and enhanced facilities. Sisters, teachers, parents, and students all gathered to witness this special occasion.

The blessing ceremony took place on the GSCS campus. Sr. Aruna George, the correspondent, along with Sr. Annie Thomas, the principal, led the prayer service. Sr. Aruna George performed the ribbon-cutting, followed by Fr. Raj Mariasusai, SDB, who blessed the entire school, parents, and students, wishing everyone a joyful and successful beginning. The atmosphere was filled with happiness and gratitude.

Following the ceremony, parents and students were warmly welcomed and led to their classrooms, where they introduced themselves and participated in an interactive session. They then explored the newly renovated school building, admiring its modern facilities and inspiring environment.

To commemorate this special occasion, the school management lovingly presented students with small tokens of appreciation, including coolers, pouches, and sweets. Everyone who attended the event expressed their gratitude and admiration for the sisters and the school's new beginning. This celebration has truly uplifted our spirits and added to our joy as we embark on this new journey.
